HEATSTROKE can be fatal

Heatstroke is a life-threatening condition. When an animal's body temperature rises too high, it can cause organ failure. Without urgent action or treatment, animals suffering from heatstroke can die.

JSPCA

If your pet is suffering from heatstroke, cool your pet down quickly and call your vet immediately. If you see a distressed dog trapped in a car, call 999. Visit jspca.org.je to learn more about keeping your pet safe in the heat.